You will join a welcoming and professional learning community where your contribution matters.

About the role

Casual teachers are an important part of ensuring our students continue to experience high-quality learning, even when their regular teacher is absent. Casual teaching at MacKillop provides an opportunity to work across a diverse and vibrant secondary school environment, supporting students in their learning, while gaining an insight into the culture and practices of the College.

Whether you are an experienced teacher seeking flexibility, a teacher returning to the profession, or an educator looking to build experience in a secondary school setting, we welcome applications from teachers who bring enthusiasm, professionalism and a genuine commitment to students.

Our students are at the heart of everything we do. We seek enthusiastic and adaptable educators who recognise and respect the individuality of every young person and are committed to supporting their diverse learning, wellbeing and engagement needs. As a Casual Relief Teacher, you will create positive and purposeful learning environments, deliver planned learning activities and establish respectful relationships that encourage students to participate, learn and achieve their personal and academic potential.

You will be supported by a welcoming and collaborative professional community, contemporary teaching facilities and a culture that values individual dignity and respect.

At MacKillop, you can choose the days you are available, the hours you work and, where possible, the learning areas in which you have expertise. This makes casual teaching an ideal option for educators looking to create a work pattern that fits their life.

If you are an enthusiastic educator who enjoys making a positive difference in the lives of young people, we would love to hear from you.
